

Between the Wars

Aug. 10, 1925

The Army downsized significantly following World War I, but professional soldiers continued training to protect the United States during the “Roaring ’20s.” This image captures Citizens Military Training Corps cavalrymen and their mounts climbing a steep bank at Camp Del Monte, Calif.